

Conflict Resolution

The Kidproof Conflict Resolution program is designed to teach children appropriate conflict resolution skills with peers, educators and parents.

As children mature, they have to make an increasing number of decisions, often leading to conflict and stress within their family, school or social setting. The Kidproof Conflict Resolution program helps kids learn the options available to them when they are faced with frustrating and difficult situations.

This valuable program gives students the ability to resolve or diffuse a situation in a healthy and productive manner, before it becomes out of control, dangerous or violent.

Topics covered include:

- The definition of conflict and violence
- Problem solving techniques for resolving conflicts
- How to identify and analyze a conflict they may have experienced
- To identify the potential positive and negative consequences of using violence to resolve conflicts
- Examine different kinds of hurtful behavior
- Conversation starters to help open communication with parents, teachers and friends
- Plus more....

Conflict resolution training doesn't completely eliminate conflict, but it helps students resolve conflicts without using violence or power control. This program provides a solid foundation of tolerance, acceptance, and self control that can be used from childhood throughout adulthood.

In addition, we have developed corresponding "optional materials" like parent guide books, craft kits, first aid kits, and other goodies that can be added to any class for extra value!
