

Social Netiquette

Social networking has become the new “playground” for teens, and who can blame them for being drawn to a place where you can be anyone you want, meet people from around the world, share pictures and experiences, build or join a community or become an instant celebrity?

The internet is a doorway into some of the most amazing, interesting and often dangerous, places in the world. Kids have access to people, ideas and influences now more than ever, and in order to keep them safe from those with less than good intentions, we must teach them how to develop their critical thinking and problem solving skills while they navigate over forty (and growing) social networking sites that are just a click away!

While meeting and growing their circle of online friendships can be fun, social networking can increase teens exposure to people who have less-than-friendly intentions. Friendships can quickly go bad and we have all heard stories about people who were stalked by someone they met online, had their identity stolen or had their computer hacked.

In the Kidproof Social Netiquette workshop, students learn to develop and apply proper social etiquette, good citizenship and critical thinking skills to meeting people, sharing information and socializing through the internet.

We focus on practical things students can do to develop their ethical capacities to make good decisions and remain open to talking about their online activities and experiences with people they trust, including their parents.

More than just safety lessons

We believe that kids learn by "doing" and our programs are action packed! Through role play and group activities, Kidproof students learn to develop their critical thinking skills by working through possible scenarios and outcomes.

Every Kidproof program comes with standard student workbooks and materials that support the lessons and provide essential "take-aways" that become a great resource for the whole family! In addition, we have developed corresponding "optional materials" like parent guide books, craft kits, first aid kits, and other goodies that can be added to any class for extra value!
